First set up was a little wonky but that could have just been me. Sadly the power button does not work on windows 10. Made a set up with the custom page to alt+f4 and then hit shutdown. I'd also like to be able to use the volume buttons on my phone to control the volume of my computer, but overall solid app, went ahead a paid for the premium version. Don't turn into remote mouse or wifi mouse practices and I'll stay happy.Lance Watanabe: This works flawlessly for me on a Galaxy S21 Ultra (and better than some others that require an installation on my PC as well). Handles Bluetooth disconnects/reconnects better then some competing apps. I use it as a remote control for streaming movies to my TV. For some reason, keyboard input won't accept my swiping of words when using Gboard and I would love it if that was resolved. Edit: I'm thrilled that the paid version lets me swipe text using gboard in the input text field. Now does everything I need!T Peter: This is a great application. Sometimes a little tricky getting it to connect but once done it's solid and works well. I use it in conjunction with my home theater pc. The app could be considerably more versatile if some punctuation characters were added to the keyboard. Several keyboard shortcuts are combinations of characters some of which are punctuation and those cannot be assigned to custom buttons. It would not be a tremendous effort to add those.Mae Baker: It worked flawlessly on my phone with my computer and automatically reconnected until I purchased the full version, now I have to forget the connection on both devices and reconnect every time and it still only works half the time. Also, the text input box doesn't work correctly and won't let me delete text entered into it. if it weren't so buggy and unreliable and if all the premium features actually worked, I would have given it four stars. I would be nice to have a live input text box insteadTricksy Hobbitses: Works really well when it's connected, and the connection over bluetooth is nice for freeing up Wifi badwidth. It may be a necessary limitation of controlling Bluetooth in an app, but it is somewhat difficult to connect it to a PC and this makes it less than perfect. It is still a very useful app, and hopefully the connectivity issues cam be resolved in future updates.Name Witheld: App looked like a good one at first, and even worked nicely for a while - until I rebooted. From that point on, no matter what I tried, it would not connect to my computer again. Restarted bluetooth- nothing, removed the pairing (as per app instructions) and paired again - still nothing. Started pair from the tablet- nothing, from computer - nothing. I just gave up on the whole thing.A Google user: This app connects shockingly fast. I just wanted to comment that the app makes it seem like it's looking for your computer on your phone for Bluetooth but at least on my setup I needed to go onto my computer to the blue tooth options and it found my phone there and I had to allow access on my computer. Maybe I missed some instructions that said that but the app didn't really look like that's what I was supposed to do. So it could just be my particular set up or this might helpA Google user: This thing never works. Always tells me to unpair the device and establish a new connection. It's hard to believe that there isn't a single half decent Bluetooth keyboard app available. Your only option for a reliable connection would be to use one of the many wifi keyboard apps you'll find on the play store, which kind of sucks.A Google user: I am giving them 4 star as this is an excellent concept and is much better than $50 handheld keyboards that don't work. The best I have seen is from Lenovo. The biggest complain I have is that connection breaks quite often. I am willing to pay $10 for app if it's reliable. It's a huge unaddressed market. You have an opportunity to make it better. There are other apps available but it requires installing some server app which loose it's competitivenes.A Google user: So much potential here, and I think with a little more iterations this will be a five star. Used it to connect my BlackBerry Key2 (with a REAL hardware keyboard) to my Windows 10 tablet to act as both mouse and keyboard to run a Power Point presentation with the Win device in tablet mode while controlling from the Blackberry. Works! Problems: as soon as I shut down the app on the Key2, the Bluetooth connection is severed and the only way to reconnect the keyboard is to unpair and re-pair with the Win 10 device. Painful. The other suggestion: please add an Escape (Esc) key send from the app. The Esc key is missing on Android devices, but important when using an Android keyboard to control a Windows device. Again, great work -- looking forward to your next versions!
