SEQUINED COLLAR

Kathleen Francis

Peter Pan neckline is a flat neckline with rounded ends that are found in the front. Women have used this classic basic design since the beginning of the 20th century and has made a great return over the past few years. It seems to be appearing a lot in the shops and around the necks, but why buy one if you can make one? In this tutorial we will show you how to write and attach a Peter Pan neckline. It is easy and fast, and can be added to any dress or top that already has or is planning to make for a feminine and sophisticated touch. Materials Fabric of your choice (we are using IL042 900 - FS Premier Finish - 100% Medium Weight Linen) Seam ball, fuse interfacing tools Paper pattern, pen, fabric marker, scissors, pins, sewing ripener, chalk, rule, French/hyp curve, measurement tape, needle, sewing machine Difficulty Beginner Time 1-2 hours Network To write your own Peter Pan collar, you simply have to cut the front and rear bodice pieces from any pattern you are using, put them flat on the table and place the front and rear shoulders along with touch neck stitches and shoulder stitches overlapped by 3/4" (2 cm). This flap will help you get a shape that fits your shoulders. If you are working with a pattern where sewing subsidies are already included, make sure to count them when placing your pieces. 2. Draw in the shape of the curved neck all the way around your half neck. Use your rule to make sure your curve is parallel to the neckline and has a consistent depth all the way. Draw the round end on the front (to create the shape of the front neck) and nothing on the back if the back has no opening or, as in our case, another round shape if your project is a one-piece dress. 3. Sew the two pieces together using a 3/8" (1 cm) seam allowance but leave the inner edge unstitched. 4. Trim the seam allowances down to 1/4" (1 cm) and notch them at the curves so they will turn smoothly. 5. Finger press the seam allowances open. 6. Turn your collar pieces right side out and press. Check out your nice and neat collar with no visible side seam on the edge. This side seam is hidden under your collar. It's time to attach the collar to the neckline. 7. But first, you need to cut a 1.5" wide strip of fabric on the bias (at a 45 degree angle) to the entire measurement of your neckline plus a couple of inches for the tails. For more instructions on how to cut your fabric on the bias please follow this tutorial. Fold your strip in half lengthwise and wrong sides together and press. 8. Pin your collar to the neckline with right sides together and your bias strip folded in half placed on top. Don't forget that the side with interfacing will be the underside of the collar. Center your collar by marking the center front and the center back of your neckline. When you reach the back opening, fold the ends of your bias strip as shown in the picture. 9. Set your machine on a longer stitch (since you have a lot of layers to stitch through) and stitch the collar and the bias strip to the neckline at your usual seam allowance (we are using 3/8" (1 cm)). 10. Trim the raw edge down to 1/4" (1 cm). 11. Now press the bias band away from the collar, fold it towards the wrong side and pin around the neckline. Now you have a sandwich with the dress and the bias on the outside, and the raw edge of the seam allowance inside. 12. Moving the collar out of the way, and making sure that the bias strip ends are parallel to the finished edges of your back edgestitch it in place. Remember to backstitch at the ends. This stitch line will be hidden on the right side of the dress under the collar. 13. Give your collar a good press and you are all done! Admire your lovely flat collar and a neatly finished neckline. This cute little collar is so simple yet elegant and can be worn so many different ways: casually during the day or spruced up for a night out. Put your own spin on this cute little collar and choose the color you love from our selection of linen fabrics! The Peter Pan collar is an applied, flat, non-convertible collar.A A The Peter Pan collar is generally considered a flat (low-stand) collar, BUT...A A the Peter Pan can actually have a stand I I'm not in the world A), on the shoulder line (point B) and on the front of the center (point C), and joined these three points with a curve. Instructions (Peter Pan Collar) - Figure 3 Draw the neckline curve from point D on the back, to point E on the front, touching at the shoulder point. Mark two nuts as shown; neckline and shoulder line. The pattern piece is the shaded yellow zone. Now we may have to make some adjustments to the neckline curve, and we also need to make a whole pattern piece, and we also need to make a low color piece. This process will take a few steps and there are some different ways that can be done -.e. cut the media-pattern, track it, maybe paste it back into another piece of paper if you need some adjustments, retracing it for the bas-collar... etc. Or using the tracking paper to track half of the paper, turn it to track the other half, etc., etc., etc. I'm going to point out what you need to do to create the pattern and show you my workflow, but my workflow may not work for you, or you may prefer another method. Instructions (Peter Pan Collar) - Figure 4a Trace the piece of the necklace. Turn the tracking role and match the CB line. Check the neck and neck curve and neck curve - see Figure 4b. Instructions (Peter Pan Collar) - Figure 4b This is to show you how the CB scot is; smooth (A), approaches a bit to CB (B), and lowers a bit (C). You have to isolate that curve. You may also have to smooth the neck edge on the CB if you did not make the design line at straight angles on the CB (which obviously didn't). Instructions (Peter Pan Collar) - Figure 5 You need to make a submarine* so that the sewing line does not appear; since it is smaller, it will pull the sewing line below. Shave 1/8 inches of the neck from the edge of the neck (not the edge of the neck) *Say, 1/8 inches in the CB line, reducing to zero when it moves to the CF.
